This course is suitable for: All practice staff

This interactive workshop is designed to support service providers in better understanding safety in the workplace.

Do you know how the law protects you when you are most at risk of violence? Are you able to assess to prevent the risk? Are you prepared to deal with the risk? Are you managing your duty of care to your staff and patients in respect to safely managing aggressive patients?

This session will provide staff with a firm understanding in how they can best prevent, manage and deal with patients who pose a risk through aggressive, abusive and violent behaviours.

Aims:

1. Understanding conflict
2. Communication models and de-escalation
3. Procedural, environmental and legal responsibilities
4. Incident reporting and support.

Learning Outcomes:

By the end of the workshop participants will:

- Have gained a firmer understanding of how to manage aggression in the workplace by introducing effective de-escalation strategies
- Have a clear understanding and confidence in how the law protects staff and patients who are under the threat of abuse or violence
- Have gathered information that will enable them to manage and de-escalate situations of threat and / or violence in the workplace lawfully
- Have gained the ability to recognise signs and triggers to escalating aggressive and / or violent behaviours
- Firmly understand the prevention considerations that will support their workforce's ability to mitigate any risk.
