Introduction

There are more and more uses for data being developed all of the time, particularly by Primary Care Networks / Integrated Care Systems and Local Health Boards (Wales), as well as developments in practice. A Data Protection Impact Assessment is a legal requirement for new uses or significant changes to the use of personal data. This webinar will equip practices with the understanding of how to conduct a DPIA or assess a DPIA presented to them when an external project requests their data.

Agenda/topics covered:

- What are DPIAs and why are they a legal requirement?
- What activities would require a practice to complete a DPIA?
- What does a good DPIA look like? - Assessing DPIAs from cross organisational projects
- Key concepts:
 - Who controls data? Where does liability lie?
 - Linking DPIAs to wider project management
 - Assessing information risks in DPIAs

Learning objectives:

- Ensure the practice is aware of when it is required to have a DPIA for using personal data
- Ensure any DPIAs produced and / or shared are of a good standard
- Reasoned assessment of information risk and suitable control measures
